

An Unlucky Day

Yesterday, Marco was very 'lucky'. He was in a park. He played with a dog after his violin lesson. He was happy.

In the afternoon, Marco left the park but he forgot his violin.

Marco went home. Suddenly he remembered his violin so he went to the park because his violin was left in the park. But he couldn't find his violin.

Then Marco was very upset because the violin was given to him by his grandma on his birthday.

Fortunately a policeman found Marco's violin and she said to Marco, 'You were in the wrong park! I found it on a bench in Happy Park.'

Finally, Marco was very happy and thanked the policeman.
