I want to be a police officer when I grow up because being a police officer is exciting and meaningful. If I become a police officer, I will catch bad people and save people.

Police officers need to be calm and brave. They need to be calm and brave so that they can save people and catch bad people.

I think this job is suitable for me because I am brave and calm so I want to be a police officer. I hope I can be a good and smart police officer and I will catch bad people and save people.
