

An Unlucky Day

By 4B Leung Ngo Yi Angel

It was a sunny day last Sunday. Marco went to a park after his violin training course and found a stray dog there. He put his violin on a bench, and then he started to play with the stray dog.

After a while, it was time to have lunch. Marco left the park and went home for his meal. Suddenly, he remembered that he forgot about his violin. He ran back to the park but found nothing. He was very upset because the violin was a birthday gift from his grandma. He had no idea and went home sadly.

When he arrived at home, Marco told his mum immediately about it. So his mum went to the police station with him. When they wanted to report lost, a police officer asked, 'Marco, is this your violin?' Marco saw his violin again with excitement! He said thank you to the officer and got back his violin.

At last, the police officer reminded Marco to be more careful to his belonging next time.

