

At the clinic

Last Monday, Tim went to the clinic with his mother because he had a cough.

Tim was waiting when a woman ran into the clinic with a boy. The boy was crying and the woman was worried. The nurse said, 'Mrs, please calm down. Tell me what happened.' 'I was cooking so I didn't see my son in the kitchen. When I turned over, I hit him and knocked over the pot. He burnt his arm and leg.' The nurse told them to see the doctor immediately. Then the woman and the boy went into the medication room. 'Please wait for a little longer,' said the nurse. Tim's mother nodded her head. Although Tim was tired and he wanted to go back home, he was worried about the boy as he heard the boy was crying loudly. Tim hoped that the boy was fine. Tim told her mum that he didn't mind to wait longer.

After 30 minutes, the woman and the boy finally came out. They got the medicine and left quickly so Tim couldn't talk to them. When Tim and his mum went into the medication room, Tim asked the doctor about the boy immediately. 'The boy is fine. You are a very kind boy but you need to take care of yourself too.' Tim and his mum laughed.

Peter Li