

In a Theme Park

Yesterday my parents and I went to a theme park. It was crowded. We waited in a long queue at the entrance. I was tired and bored.

When we were waiting, I saw my favourite cartoon character. He had some balloons. I was excited. I rushed to him. I said, 'Can I take a photo with you?' Suddenly, he fell down and his balloons flew away. All the people near us screamed. I was scared. Luckily he was not injured but I hurt my leg. It was a bad day.

Finally we went to hospital and the doctor told me to take some medicine. I think I should be more careful next time.
