

Lost on Lantau

Last Sunday, it was a sunny and cool day. Mr and Mrs Chan visited the Big Buddha. They were excited because it was a famous and beautiful attraction.

On their way back, they got lost because they forgot to bring a map. They didn't know where they were. 'Can someone help us?' shouted Mr Chan.

Luckily, they saw a man. They asked him for the way to the bus stop. He was helpful and showed them the way. 'You must arrive there before 11 pm because that is the time for the last bus,' the man said.

They arrived at the bus stop too late so they only found the last bus leaving. They wanted to call a taxi but no taxi drivers wanted to carry them. They had no choice but to walk to the pier. Finally, they arrived at the pier but they were tired. They slept on the ferry on their way home.

I have learnt from this story that we should prepare well before we go on a trip.
